2003, 2002 > aiga.boston.org, Reviews of Paula Scher and Massin lectures.
2002 > aiga.org, VOICE conference presentation, "Non-BFA Graphic Design Curricula."
2002 > aiga.org, conference review, TEXTure.
2001 > Bridgewater Review, "In the Beginning was the Logos: classical proportion in design practice and education."
2000 > Self-published booklet, Geometric Proportions in Graphic Design Education.
1992 > Publication to accompany slide lecture, "The Marketing of Consumerism."
1990, 1991 > Bryant and Stratton Business Institute. Author, course manuals for all Bryant and Stratton Campuses:
Typography, Introduction to Computer Design, Basic Design.
1979 > Journal of Genetic Psychology, Jan. "The Effect of Mood-Content of Black-and-White Pictures Upon Color Choice."

PROFESSIONAL PRESENTATIONS 1997 > Digital Imaging: a personal work. Bennington College, Bennington, VT
Slide lectures: 1. photography-based digital images with text to suggest disparate meanings; and 2. uses of classical proportions in the man-made environment.
1997 > Sources of loss of connectedness in contemporary visual perception. Daemen College, Amherst, NY. Slide lecture revealing changing visual perceptions precipitated by 19th- and 20th-century industrialization and the effects of these changed perceptions upon human-made design.
1996 > Affecting visual messages with text/image juxtapositions. The Forum Gallery, Jamestown, NY
Talk and exhibit: disparate text/image combinations to alter viewer/reader perceptions.
1995 > Artists and writers speak on art, technology, and gender. Big Orbit Gallery, Buffalo, NY
In conjunction with the exhibit, Body/Machine. A slide lecture considering viewer perception of text and digitally-manipulated images as different from viewer perception of text and 'unmanipulated' traditionally-produced photographic images.
1993 > MFA Thesis Defense: The Relationship between Mission Statement and Perceived Image at Not-For-Profit Photography Art Organizations. SUNY at Buffalo. Comparison between subjects' perceptions of organizations and organizations' statements about selves. Interviewed organizations' Directors. Administered questionnaires to subject volunteers after they reviewed printed material submitted by each organization. Collected Subject Responses and compared them to respective organizations' Directors' responses.
1992 > The Marketing of Consumerism. SUNY at Buffalo. Contrast and comparison of advertising photography in 1939 issues of magazines for two different audiences: Ladies Home Journal and LIFE.
